Re: REACH update

Dear Madame/Sir,

As we informed you earlier, on 1st June 2007 a new legislation called REACH came into force. The first stage of REACH has now been closed, before 1st December 2008 all chemical substances, where necessary, needed to be pre-registered.

Since BluePrint Products is a manufacturer of preparations, downstream user of chemical substances, we are not obliged to do the registration of the chemical substances (raw materials) ourselves. Therefore we're working in close contact with our suppliers, who formally confirmed that all chemical substances in our products, if not exempt from REACH, have been pre-registered and will be registered in due time according the REACH timetable.

Within all our R&D efforts, it's a priority to select only those raw materials that will create or leave the least possible burden to the environment, therefore it's unlikely that any of the raw materials in use would be banned in the future, so the present product range will remain available as it is, and obviously all newly introduced products will be based on REACH registered materials only.

In cooperation with our supplier's we will keep you informed at all times off possible actions you'll have to perform (only needed within Europe).

Safety datasheets will have to be updated and will be provided in due course when applicable, in line with the official REACH implementation program.

If you have any questions about REACH you can always contact the office at nr. +32/9-361.08.00 or send an e-mail to info@blueprint-products.com.

Kind regards,

Marketing department
